Of the people I have known all these forty years I wish to say that as for a dear old soul who has given her all for Meridian and dedicated her life to doing kind things for others and lending a hand to those in distress and who today probably has more friends than anyone else who is or ever was in Meridian I don't think I will get too many dissenting votes when I say Grandma Peer. There are perhaps some of you other old-timers whose memories may serve them better than mine. I'm sure the Times will welcome any corrections you may wish to make in this article, or further stories about early Meridian.
